

Why a Managed Service?

Maildistiller stops spam and viruses before they ever reach your network.

The internet is a dangerous place. Some studies put spam now hitting record levels of 95% of all email traffic. Whilst this is mostly harmless advertising it still clogs up your network, costs you money on email storage, slows customers' access to you and involves your staff time clearing the unwanted email. Viruses can bring a company to its knees. Frequent organisation failures can be due to terms you'll hear such as Denial of Service, Phishing and Spoofing.

Maildistiller provides a managed service to eradicate viruses and abolish Spam. There are alternatives on the market, but they have their limitations:

Software based services require you to install code on your infrastructure which is useful but only updates with new virus definitions periodically. It's limited to certain platforms – so you may need to purchase additional equipment, it doesn't protect your bandwidth or solve the storage cost let alone provide adequate protection.

Other solutions require you to install a hardware appliance onto your system.

Appliances are costly and time consuming to install and maintain and do little to protect your bandwidth. They offer low levels of protection compared to Maildistiller and are the single point of failure – if the box breaks you have no protection until it's repaired.

Maildistiller is a managed service. A single phone call and we can have you protected within minutes. What the service does is to prevent viral, spam, denial of service attacks etc before it gets anywhere near your network. Messaging is cleaned by our data centres into pure filtered email, scrubbed of spam or viruses so your network handles a manageable level of safe traffic in a securely 'walled garden' environment. Virus updates are near instant from our multi engine system. We also offer a way to get email securely if for any reason your own email system should ever go offline. Equally we can make sure email leaving your organisation is also cleansed of any inappropriate content, add legal riders and provide storage solutions for legal compliance.

Maldistiller is a managed service requiring no hardware or software to be deployed by subscribing organisations.

We halt any viral, spam, or denial of service attack before it gets anywhere near your network. Messaging is cleaned by our data centres into pure filtered email, scrubbed of spam or viruses.
